SUPERIOR COURT.

The May term of the superior court for Windham county was convened Tuesday morning at 10.15 o'clock, Hon, Joel H. Reed, judge. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Louis M. Flocken of the Methodist church.

The proceedings for the day's session comprised the putting to plea of a dozen prisoners charred with criminal offenses and the rollicall of the jurors drawn last Friday. The jurors were not supposed to be summensed in until Wednesday and consequently a number of the cases to be tried by jury were not ready, and in view of the fact that a misunderstanding was the cause of the appearance in court of the members of the jury all cases were deferred until Wednesday.

TWENTY CARLOADS. Much Valuable Machinery Coming for Hope Printing Company.

Indications are that, industrially, East Killingly is to take on a new lease of business activity. The coming of the Hope Printing company, to occupy the Ross mill, means prosperity not only for the eastern section of the town, but for all of Killingly. This town, but for all of Killingly. This concern promises to make a notable addition to the manufacturing interests of the town. Their coming has not been heralded by any blare of trumpels; rather has their securing possession of the mill property been unsuspected by the general public. The big shipment of machinery for the mill, now at Dayville, gives a line on the scale upon which they propose to do business. The machinery already received is to be followed by other shipments aggregating upwards of twenty carloads. The plant will be in operation in a few weeks.

BY MAN-POWER. Motor-Driven Vehicle Put to New

Danielson has a motor driven vehi-cle which the chauffeur steers by tak-ing his place between the shafts, re-placing the horse that formerly was placing the horse that formerly was used to pull the machine around town. The vehicle in question is not an automobile and the man who owns it does not pay the cost of operation. The machine was not built for speed or pleasure; it was produced as a business asset—for sawing wood by power. The owner kept a horse to pull the machine around until he conceived the idea of reducing expenses by eliminating the animal and this he accomplished by connecting the power that is used to drive the saw with the that is used to drive the saw with the rear wheels of the arrangement on which the wood cutting outfit is mounted. Now, when a change of location is made the owner switches on the motive power and steers the very tractable machine to its destination. He finds that gasoline is cheaper than cets and is getting some extra profit as the result of his idea,

Hears Reports of Recent Continental Congress.

The first case called was that of state vs. Frank Gordon, larceny. In-formation in the same charged that on the 28th of February, 1909, in the town of Killingly, he took from the Wil-liamsville Manufacturing company 100 yards of cloth and varnish brushes State vs. George W. Butts was rext called. The charge was the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors and was for the specific act of the sale of one gallon of liquor on the 31st day of January, 1969, between the hour of 12 o'clock Saturday and 12 Sunday, to one Mrs. Frank Turner of Killingly.

Special Attorney E. Frank Bugbes, who is conducting the prosecution for the state for this term, told the court that originally the accused was informed against on three counts, charging him with the sale of cider in quanties of less than a gallon, but that after an investigation two of these were noiled and that while said accused was known to have had the reputation of selling cider on various occasions, in the fine with costs as recommended.
State vs. Thomas Delileux and William St. Andry was then called. The charge was theft from the person and assault with intent to rob. Information disclosed that on the 15th of March, 1309, the accused did steal from the pocket of Frank Cavanagh at ties of less than a gallon, but that af-ter an investigation two of these were noiled and that while said accused was known to have had the reputation of selling cider on various occasions, in view of the fact that he was an old man and a well known resident he would recommend that a fine of $50 with costs, which would total upwards of $90, be imposed. The court, after due consideration of the facts, ordered
